

The score belongs to the identity, not the gene: the same target can carry one cell type's network and barely touch another's.